All campers are expected to comply with the rules and policies set forth by the University and camp administration. Failure to abide by announced regulations may result in expulsion from camp at any time. Fees will not be refunded in such cases. Policy questions should be forwarded to the Camp Director.

- Campers must attend all scheduled rehearsals, lessons, classes, and meetings.

- Recreational activities are planned for each evening. Counselors will explain all evening activities and available options.

- Campers who damage property must pay for repair and/or replacement.

- Automobiles left unattended in restricted areas are subject to fines and towing. All city and campus traffic regulations must be observed.

- Campers are responsible for their personal items (electronics, purses, etc.) at all times. You are encouraged to carry your instrument with you or to secure a locker through the camp office.

- Practicing is not allowed in the dormitory.

- Transportation is provided on university buses marked “Special.” Do not ride buses marked with the names of colors (red, tan, green, etc.).

- Campers using the Walton Arts Center must remain on the grounds.

- Campers may not remove food from the dining hall. Tables must be cleaned and trays returned at the end of each meal.

- Disorderly conduct during meals is not tolerated.

- Refrigerators, televisions, gaming systems, laptops and DVD players are not allowed.

Campers who break rules may be assigned a range of penalties, including, but not limited to, E.P.D. (Extra Police Duty). Campers serving E.P.D. spend a portion of their free time cleaning the dorm area.

ATTIRE

Campers should wear clothing that meets school dress codes. Specifically, no bare midriffs or backs are allowed, nor should the camper’s undergarments be exposed. Camp counselors are the final authorities on determining whether clothing is appropriate.

A Special Note from Head Counselors
Mike & Nikki Major

“IS THERE ANYTHING I SHOULDN’T BRING TO CAMP?”

Glad you asked! Other than clothing no-no’s, there are a few items which are discouraged or flat-out forbidden at Music Camp. Usually, the reason for banning an item is due more to the intent of the camper who brings it than the item itself, i.e., shaving cream. Note that it is aptly named “shaving” cream, not “squirting” cream. With this in mind, we offer this fun (but nevertheless accurate) mandate:

Band Campers should not bring any substance for the purpose of having it ... squeezed, squished, squashed, squooshed, poured, placed, planted, powdered, ejected, reflected, injected, subjected, slopped, scraped, sprayed, spewed, splashed, blotted, blasted, soaked, sopped or in any way transferred or transmitted to the person or property of a fellow camper or the premises in which we abide!

Our Motto: “If in doubt - leave it out!”
